

Geoscope

After testing various brands without success, Geoscope turned to Signet for a reliable supply of quality spot marking paints.

As a leading provider of utility locating and surveying services, Geoscope is dedicated to protecting New South Wales' civil construction sector from damage and disruption to underground services and utility assets.

When conducting site mark-ups, Geoscope relies on neat and accurate paint markings to ensure that workers on-site clearly understand what is taking place underground. Over the years, the company has tested various paint brands in search of an aerosol marking product that reflects their commitment to quality with clear, precise marks. Unfortunately, they have often encountered issues with paint consistency, leading to blotchiness and inconsistent spray patterns.

"We've trialled different paint brands in the past, but they were messy. Not only does this give us a bad look, but it also makes the marks difficult to interpret, which could potentially be dangerous."

– Simon Williams, Owner and Founder of Geoscope.

Seeking a solution, Geoscope turned to Signet, and since then, Signet's Spot Marking Paint has become an indispensable tool on-site. Each marking is tailored to represent a specific underground service, with each service type assigned a distinct paint colour.

"For our team, it's about having the right marking products and equipment readily available to deliver the clearest marks in the most efficient way possible. Signet's paint consistently delivers on this."

Signet's Spot Marking Paint has enabled Geoscope Utility Detection Services to maintain consistency and clarity in their mark-ups, providing them with a competitive edge in the surveying industry.

"We like to be known as the company that keeps our work as neat as possible. The paint markings on the ground are our signatures, and we take pride in the work we achieve, pairing our expert knowledge with a quality product."

Signet is proud to support Geoscope and over 60,000 other Aussie ventures.

Customer Case Study

Best Signs

Signet's Field Marking Paint helps Best Signs achieve 50% more paint per drum and reduces costs by 60%.

Brisbane based company, Best Signs, was founded by a father and son duo in 1972 as a full-service custom sign shop. They've since expanded to offer eight types of signage to customers across New South Wales and Queensland.

Thanks to their top-notch quality and service, Best Signs has earned the trust of leading Aussie brands – supplying eye-catching grass signage for names like Chemist Warehouse, Sportsbet, and major AFL and NRL stadiums across the country.

Faced with poor paint quality and unreliable deliveries from their previous supplier, Best Signs needed a reliable supplier to help bring their time sensitive signage to life.

"Our signage projects rely on the highest quality paints delivered to us without delays. Finding a supplier that can meet both these requirements is key for helping us achieve tight deadlines and the best results." – Tim Clark, Best Signs Director.

After trialling a handful of suppliers, Best Signs chose to partner with Signet for their Field Marking Paint. Since switching to Signet, they have been able to significantly improve their signage quality to a standard that won't fade with foot traffic. They also found that Signet's solution provided exceptional coverage and opacity allowing them to use less paint to achieve the same result, decreasing their overall cost by 60%.

"We've seen our painters increase their on-the-job efficiency with less need to stop for paint changes, enabling us to take on a higher volume of jobs."

As Signet's paints are locally manufactured, they are always in stock, ensuring Best Signs receives their paints in time for application.

"We love that Signet's paints are produced locally. Having high-quality paints and a reliable supplier makes it easy for us to produce great work for our customers."

Signet's paints, aerosols and inks have been proudly manufactured in Australia for over 55 years.

Signet is proud to support Best Signs and over 60,000 other Aussie ventures.
